SATURDAY: Social and Recreation evening.

The first language classes will meet Monday evening, June 11. Watch bulletin board for place of meeting. All of those who can fit into the 1st year college-second semester category in any way are expected to take the course.

All magazines, newspapers, pamphlets, and new books are now being put into the unit library in the Inwood Bldg. adjoining Miss Ramseyer's apartment.

Any and all C.O.'s during wartime are on the spot and are watched very closely. This is very true at HRSB and especially so due to the recent "situation" at Ryon Hall and subsequent repercussions. Therefore, we would suggest that everybody watch ~~himself~~ his conduct very closely. Several people have complained of noise in the male home and the same rules likely would apply to Inwood on this point: 1. Don't hold conversations in the hallway. 2. Close the door to your room for any major or minor bull or hen sessions. 3. Keep your voices down fairly low even with the door closed.

Also, be careful of your conversation in front of other employees; for instance, on the topic of religion-don't poke fun or speak disparagingly of the Catholics. Feel very free to explain the Mennonite beliefs and to tell about the M.C.C. foreign relief program, but don't try to force your views on unwilling listeners. Always stand for the truth, but don't present it in such a way or time that you antagonize the individual and negate any past progress or possibility for future rapport and harmony.

It is also annoying to those employees working in the cafeteria for some of us to come inexcusably late to our meals, thus keeping them a little beyond their regular closing time. Let's be as cooperative as possible with them. As Bob Areider says "be aggressively friendly with the employees" and perhaps we can speed up the process of reconciliation.
